Trudeau invite les Snowbirds à rester au pays

Le PM Trudeau recommande « fortement » aux Canadiens de ne pas se rendre aux États-Unis durant les prochaines semaines, malgré l'attrait du soleil et des plages, en raison de la pandémie de COVID-19 qui continue de prendre de l'ampleur au sud de la frontière. Il a rappelé que le gouvernement canadien ne recommande pas d'effectuer des voyages à l'étranger.

Flu season hasn't started in Quebec

Last year at this time, there were 161 reported cases of the flu. So far this season: two. Physical distancing, masks and other measures to slow the spread of COVID-19 appear to have helped delay the start of influenza in Quebec. The province hit its peak of 2,307 cases of Influenza A and B for the winter during the last week of January this year.

P.E.I. to make masks mandatory in indoor public places

Posted: Nov 17, 2020

P.E.I. Premier Dennis King says the province will make mask wearing mandatory in indoor public spaces in order to blunt the impact of COVID-19, although Tuesday's weekly briefing included the information that P.E.I. has no new cases.

"We have seen compliance like no other jurisdiction," King said, adding that this is not the time to boast and Islanders must keep following pandemic protocols.

"However, things outside our province's borders and outside our Atlantic bubble are hitting a critical point," he said. "This isn't about the cases here; this is about the turbulence we are seeing across the country."

As of midnight on Thursday and continuing until Feb. 15, 2021 unless something significant changes, non-medical masks will be required in all indoor public places, King told the Island's weekly public health briefing.

Chief Public Health Officer Dr. Heather Morrison later said masks will be required in stores and retail businesses, restaurants except when eating or drinking, sports buildings except when you are exercising, places of worship, workplaces open to the public, government buildings, and similar locations.

There will be exceptions for very young children and people who cannot wear masks for medical reasons.

Nova Scotia Reports Two School-based Cases of COVID-19

November 16, 2020

Nova Scotia is reporting two additional cases of COVID-19 today, the first cases associated with schools.

One person at Graham Creighton Junior High in Cherry Brook and one person at Auburn Drive High in Cole Harbour tested positive for COVID-19. Neither attended school today and both are self-isolating at home.

Public health will be in touch with close contacts as part of their ongoing investigation and advise of next steps.

Everyone in a class which a confirmed case attended is being tested and asked to self-isolate for 14 days.

Students will be supported to learn at home.

Only members of the school community who are directed to stay home are required to do so.

Nova Scotia public schools won't allow international students this winter

Posted: Nov 16, 2020 3:39 PM AT | Last Updated: November 16

These students usually have the opportunity to enrol in over 80 junior and senior high schools across the province. They were also denied entry this fall. Their winter semester would have begun in February 2021.

Boulter said the decision likely impacts about 300 students who were hoping to come next year.
